caused by his extra effort to pass it. He was, indeed, caught in his ewn trap. On Saturday

he and Edmunds telegraphed to all the absent republican senators to be here today, in order to aid in bringing the elections bill to a vote.

One of the most urgent telegrams was sent to Senator Jones, of Nevada, who was in New

AND JONES CAME IN.

Senator Jones came. He reached here early this morning. The first men he met in the senate was his colleagues, Senators Stewart,

Walcott and Teller. The three immediately commenced discussing the chances of free coinage in the near future. Teller expressed were using the force bill to head off free coin-in the way they had been going much longer, there would be no financial legislature this session. Senators Jones, Walcott and Stewart agreed that Teller was correct.

Then Senator Jones mapped out his programme. It was to antagonize the force bill with the financial bill, when Hoar called up the former. Jones believed the silver men could win. The other three senators agreed. The four senators were in the rear of the chamber when this scheme was concocted. Walcott agreed to notify Senator Gorman, the democratic leader, of what was to be done, and in structed him to have his forces ready. Jones,

Teller and Stewart were to work on the western republicans and get assistance. The scheme was worked so quietly that no one on the outside had the faintest idea of what was going on. Hoar, Sherman, Edmunds, Spooner and the other force bill senators were densely ignorant of the proposed republican rebellion.

HOW HOAR WAS TAKEN IN.

Indeed, Hoar seemed particularly happy. He had just had Mr. McConnell, the second congratulating himself that the republicans now had fourteen majority. He was also counting on the caucus called for tonight adopting less plan for passing the force bill. Granny Hoar's face was, indeed, radiant with smiles. He was happy. At last the trivial chair. It was after 2 o'clock, and as the vote on a local bill was announced, Senator Hoar

The silver bill having been taken up, it was ead by the clerk, and Mr. Stewart moved to read by the clerk, and Mr. Stewart moved to amend it by adding the following:

That any owner of silver bullion, not too base for operations of the mint may deposit the same in amounts of value of not less that $100 at any mint of the United States to be formed into standard dollars or bars, for his benefit and without charge; and that at said owner's option he may receive therefor an equivalent of such standard dollars in treasury notes of the same form and description, and having the same legal qualities as notes provided for by the act approved July 14, 1800, entitled, "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of treasury notes of the same of the same of the same shall be legal tender for their nominal amount in payment of all debts, public and "rivate, and shall be receivable for customs taxes and all public dues, and when so received may be reissued in the same manner and to the same extent as other treasury notes.

Mr. Stewart expend in any second of the amount.

Mr. Stewart argued in support of the amendment. His amendment, he said, would rement. been before it was excluded from the mints of the United States and Europe.

TAPEWORM JOHN IS ANNOYED. Mr. Sherman said that the sudden and ur expected change of scene and the introduction of a new topic of debate, should not allow the revolutionary measure now proposed (by Mr. tewart's amendment) to pass without the serious and sober attention of every senator. The fact that there had been an unexpected defection in the republican party would relieve the minority of this body from its responsibility if it supported that measure. He appealed to the sober sense of responsibility on the demo cratic side of the chamber against a measur which he regarded as revolutionary and dangerous, and the effect of which (if it should become a law) would be more destructive than that of any measure that had been proposed Messrs. Stewart and Rengan replied to Mr. herman, and Mr. Reagan advocated the adoption of Mr. Stewart's amendment. He trusted that the senate would provide for the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

At the close of Mr. Reagan's remarks Mr. Teller obtained the floor, and the senate adjourned until tomorrow at 10 o'clock a. m.

THE SILVER BILL IS UP. The silver bill, however, cannot be displaced as today's vote demonstrated a majority of the enate is determined to consider this question in preference to all others.

Thus the force bill is a dead issue until the silver bill is disposed of, and that will not be in less than perhaps twenty days. Then the appropriation bills will have piled up in such numbers before the senate that they will consume all the time remaining before the 4th of March. Hear refused to see any newspaper men this afternoon or tonight. Senator Edmunds however, severely criticised the western senators, but said he had no doubt but that it meant the death of the election bill. He did not believe it would be considered again in the senate. Such admission from Senator Edmunds means that he believes the force bill to be dead beyond resurrection. It is, however, not probable that the president and Granny Hoar will abandon hope.

The bill will probably be heard from later, but it can hardly cut very much of a figure. The republican caucus tonight decided that the financial bill should be pushed to a vote by matters that occupy the first hour of the senate every day were concluded. Vice Presi-

A republican senator who favors free coinage said tonight that he felt quite confident after, perhaps two or three weeks' debate, fa free coinage amendment to the financial bill would be adopted. He believed nearly twothirds of the senate favored a free coinage

Senator Ingalls came into the senate chamber just after the financial bill had been taken up today. He was surprised, but said he ould not vote to lay it aside. He will vote for free coinage.

The Georgia Postoffices. The house postoffice committee today re-ported favorably the bill to give all towns whose gross postoffice receipts exceed $5,000, a free delivery service. The bill will pass. The Georgia towns that now have no free delivery, but will get it by this bill, are: Albany, Americus, Athens, Marietta aud Thomasville. The Alabama towns are Bessemer Eufaula, Florence, Gadsden, Huntsville, Talladega, Tuscaloosa.

The South Carolina towns are Spartanburg and Sumter.

Georgia Postmasters. Georgia postmasters were appointed today as

E. Lowry, Effie, Whitfield county. A. B. Young, Everett, Crawford county.
J. L. McIntire, Sonora, Gordon county.

T. B. Stanford, Windsor, Walton county. Senator Colquitt is still confined to his room. His attending physician, however, says he will probably be able to resume his duties in the enate next week.

Mr. Carlton returned today. His family will come next week, and will at once move into their new home on Connecticut avenue.

For Improving Alabama River.

Washington, January 5.—Secretary Proctor today sent to the house of representatives the re-port of Captain Philip M. Price, corps of engineers, on the results of a preliminary examination of "Alabama river, Alabama, to ascertain the cost of securing a six-toot channel at low water from the mouth to Wetumpka." Captain Price states that the present large and growing commerce of Alabama river would be greatly benefited by having a six-toot channel, and that as this river with its tributaries forms a natural route for transportation to the guif of Mexico of coai and tin products of a vast terfitory, a six-foot channel will be required for the profitable development of this traffic. ers, on the results of a preliminary examination

"I suggest," said Mr. Haas, "that the vote on that be taken by the members rising."
Then after a second's pause Mr. Haas continued: "I'll put the vote. Those in favor of the resolution please rise."
Every member rose. Then as they sat down Mayor Pro Tem. Hutchison arose, saying:
I sincerely thank you for this expression of your confidence and esteem. The duties of this chair, as you well know, have at times been trying and difficult. It is therefore the more gratifying to me that I have been able to discharge these duties in a manner that has been acceptable to you. We have met as a legislative body for the last time and in severing our relations permit me to assure each member of this council that he has my warm affection for his welfare and future success in life.
"I have an ordinance I desire read," said Mr.

Mr. Hendrix introduced a resolution fixing the safety of T. J. Malone, tax assessor, at $1,400, from July, 1890, and passing up a check of $100 in Mr. Malone's favor, to cover the increase in salary from July to December. This was adopted.

Mr. Howell introduced a resolution authorizing Clerk Woodward to have printed all the annual reports of the different committees for the year 1890, at a cost not exceeding $3900.

The reports of the park commission and park committee and Mr. Herring's report on the water question will also be published.

Mr. King presented a resolution requiring "the unsignity hole at the corner of Wheat and Peach-tree streets to be filled." The resolution was

THE PARK COMMITTEE.

The park committee's annual report made reference to the annual report of the park commission. Thirteen thousand four hundred and twenty-eight dollars was the amount appropriated to the park for listo, and it was likewise the amount expended. The committee recommended a park for the north side of the city.

Mr. Robbins, chairman, presented a report for the year. It was simply a declaration that Oakland was growing more beautiful every day.

Mr. Lambert, chairman, sent in a report showing that there were thirty-one old style cisterns yet in the city. The report recommended that they be well cared for, as a break in the water main or in the machinery at the pumping station is liable to occur.

THE STREET COMMITTEE.

Mr. McLendon, chairman of the street committee, submitted a report for the year 1850. The report made reference to the annual report of the city engineer. It showed 14 27-100 miles of curbing and sidewalks laid at cost of $45,220.40; 4 8-10 miles of granite block, rubble and telford pavement at a cost of $449,220.474, making a total expenditure for street pavements and sidewalks for the year of $194,75.14. That is an increase over last year's work of about 5 per cent. There has been expended for opening and widening streets $29,474, the greater portion of which was paid for widening Wheat, between Peachtree and Pryor, and opening Loyd street from Fair street to Crumley street. The importance of this will be demonstrated by increased assessments which will soon be sufficient to pay the expense.

The expenditure for streets ordinary amounts to $58,96.11. Under this head is included all work of grading streets and sidewalks, repairs to improved streets, the construction of culverts and bridges, expenses of changang and so forth.

The board of health submitted a report covering page after page of legal cap. It was a complete history of the sanitary condition of the city and a therough resume of the work done during the past year. CHIEF OF POLICE.

Captain A. B. Connoily, chief of police, handed in a report covering completely and accurately the work of the department for '91. It showed the work of the department for '91. It showed the total arrests to be 12,837, of which 1,448 were for state offenses and 11.389 for violation of city laws. Of the city cases 7,853 were fined, 3,953 were dismissed and 445 were continued. The fines imposed by the recorder was $46,446.90. Of this amount there was collected $24,928.90, remated, $1,390.50, escaped from stockade, $346.50; worked out on the street, $16,524.15. The amount of money collected from the various sources and turned over to the city treasury was $25,743.78. The report showed that 5,23 white males, 380 white females, 5,221 colored males and 1,715 colored females were arrested during the year. The total police force was shown to be 118 men. The report closed with a compliment to the department for its faithful work.

THE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

Mr. Middlebrooks, chairman, presented a re port, showing $8,700 as the amount expended. The report referred in complimentary terms to the work of Warden Hunter, and referred with pride to the building of the Grady hospital.

THE TAX COMMITTEE.

Mr. Middlebrooks, chairman, handed in a port of the tax income from real estate port of the tax income from real estate, personal, street tax and sanitary. It is $672,147.49. The amount paid, $313,856.13; ft. fts, $296,230.75; discount, $2.060.61. The gain in real estate for '91 over '90 was $5,856,206; in personal, $1,084,158, making a total gain of $5,540,-364. The report refers to the tax collector's report and gives its totals, and to the marshal's report. The report gave a resume of the work of the committee for the year.

M. Howell, chairman of the board of fire masters submitted his annual report. It declared the condition of the city's property to be first-class with the exception of No. 1 engine house, which is declared old and will in the near future have to be torn away and rebuilt. The new engine house, at a cost of $6,500, is referred to. The department is declared to be simply perfect. The splendid discipline is complimented and the report says:

"As an evidence of the watchfulness of the chief and the satisfaction of the men, the roll is the same as at the beginning of the year, with the exception of four men, three of whom resigned to accept better positions, and one was discharged."

The report of the accomplished superintendent of public schools, made through the board of education, is a very interesting document, and shows the gratifying success of our school system during the past year. New schoolhouses are added each year, and several more are now needed and should be furnished. Every child must have a seat in the schools, and new buildings should be erected as the demand for seats increases.

and with so little triction as during the past year. All of her obligations were met at maturity, and many of them anticipated, and a comfortable balance stood daily to her credit in the bank. The city charter having allowed it, it has been the custom for years for the city to borrow $75,000 in the early spring, to be repaid in December, on which interest is paid for eight or nine months. The past year we borrowed only $30,000, and retained it only three months, and I have no doubt that during the present year it will be unnecessary to borrow any amount. This result is produced by requiring every dollar of the public money to be paid to the treasurer the day it is collected. The sateguards thrown around all collections of the city's money have forced all of it without diversion into the city treasury from which it can be drawn only by youchers properly approved and andited. I must commend the present incumbent of that office for the able manner in which that department was organized and has been conducted by him.

Every department of the city government is in a satisfactory condition except that of the waterworks, and this is due alone to the quality and inadequacy of the supply. The department has been admirably managed by the superintendent and other officers who have charge of it. From the day of my inauguration I have been urging new works. The people voted the bonds to pay for them. Bids were received for the material, and the work would now have been in progress if you had not interposed obstacles. There may be good reasons, but they have never been brought to my attention. In order to aid the city in every possible way in securing good water from the best stream, and at the lowest price, I requested you to give me the authority as appoint a commission of citizens to act with your commissioners in selecting the stream, adopting the plans and making the contracts. The increase in the value of real and personal property in 1890, over 1889, was $5,540,364, and the rate of assessment was not raised, but this large amount was the natural increase in the value of property. The assessment on property in Atlanta is very reasonable, in fact very low. The charter requires that the property shall be assessed at its cash market value. At public sales, which are constantly taking place in the city, property frequently brings more than double the assessment, and rarely less than one-third over it.

The presentation of this address is my last official act, and with its delivery my term of office as mayor of Atlanta expires.

The city of Atlanta is fortunate in having secured the services of the distinguished geatleman who has been chosen my successor, and I surrender the office to him with the assurance that our city, with all its varied interests and industries, will prosper under his wise administration.

Mayor Hemphill, with Judge Clarke beside him, advanced to the mayor's stand.

They both ascended. Clerk Woodward handed Mr. Hemphill a Bible and Judge Clarke handed him a paper. With the Bible in his righthand and the paper in his left, Mr. Hemphill sald:

"Georgia, Fulton County—I, W. A. Hemphill, do solenmly swear that I will, to the utmost of my ability, discharge the duties of mayor for the city of Atlanta during my continuance in office, so help me God.

MAYOR HEMPHILL'S ADDRESS.

MAYOR REMPHILL'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Hemphill then arose, saying:

Gentlemen of the General Council: I do not propose to instruct you as to what is your duty, for I believe there is not one of you who does not fully understand his duty, and nothing moves you but a determination to perform whatever is required ot you.

The resources of this city are great, the income being nearly a million and a half of dollars. Our citizens do not object to paying this immense sum, provided you prove to them that it is economically and judiciously spent for the good of our city. They do not expect it to be wasted in extravagant salaries, useless or temporary work. Whatever is done should be done well. I am satisfied that thousands of dollars have been wasted in temporary improvements, and when I say this I do not mean to reflect upon our superintendent of public miprovements, and when I say this I do not mean to reflect upon our superintendent of public works. We should see to it that when a street is improved or a culvert built, it is done with skill and with a view to permanency, so that neither travel nor flood can unfix the work. It is gratifying to state that I believe a sufficient sum can be raised for the revenues of the city without can be raised for the revenues of the city without materially increasing the valuation of assessments over last year.

It is fortunate that we come into the government at such an auspicious time. Atlanta was never more flourishing than now. The people are prosperous and happy. While the gannt specter of a panic has been threatening the most of the large cities in this country. Atlanta has gone on placid and serene, with plenty of funds in her banks and no lack of condidence among her merchants. We serene, with plenty of funds in her banks and no lack of condidence among her merchants. We have had no failure to disturb our business horizon, no dishonest officials to shake the confidence of those who put them in office. Real estate was never as high as it is now. There was never as much building. Go anywhere you will in the limits of our wonderful city, and you have nothing but evidence of prosperity, and happiness. The administration that has just closed has set an example worthy of our emulation. We ought not to have any sectional issues or jealousies in our city. A citizen on the north side ought to be as proud of the south side as he who lives on that side, and vice versa. The improvement and grandeur of Atlanta as a whole should be the ambition of every citizen in it. I firmly believe that in a few years we are going to have a large city—one double the population of the present. It then behoves us as wise legislators] to prepare for the great increase.

I will call your attention to a few important ent. It then behooves us as wise legislators to prepare for the great increase.

I will call your attention to a few important matters, and I hope you will at once inaugurate plans to give our city what is so greatly needed.

WATERWORKS.

I bellye that it is conceded that our greatest need is water—water that is pure and in full supply, and as one of our citizens expresses it, "water that we can enjoy without fear, and use without stint." The people demand this, and nothing else will do. Our supply must come from flowing streams and not from ponds. Measures must be inaugurated at once that will secure what we need. We do not expect to finish it during one adminis-streams and not from ponds. Measures must be inaugurated at once that will secure what we need. We do not expect to finish it during one administration, but we do expect that plans will be perfected and the preliminary steps taken to give our city all the water necessary for years to come.

The main trunk sewers of this city should be continued to or beyond the corporate limits, so as to protect our people from contagious and malignant diseases.

To unitize our city, every part should be in easy communication. This can be done by the building of bridges, and the opening and paying of streets and the construction of sidewalks.

Forsyth street bridge should be built at once. I believe it is the duty of the county to pay a por-

Forsyth street bridge should be built at once. I believe it is the duty of the county to pay a portion of the cost of this bridge. Atlanta pays about 90-100 of the tax of the county, and it is nothing but right that the county should help on some of these improvements, especially an important one as this bridge is to the whole county. should be opened so as to bring the western por-tion of our city in communication with the busi-ness center.

North Atlanta is entitled to a park, one that will be a pride to Atlanta and one that her citizens can enjoy and get the full benefit of.

Grant park should be made more accessible by streets or avenues free from dummies and street

Our public schools have never been as full or prosperous as now, but there are those who are entitled to the full benefits of the schools who are prevented to the rull benefits of the schools who are prevented from enjoying them by reason of their having to work for their daily bread during the present school hours. You ought to provide means for the board of education to establish night schools for the benefit of all who cannot attend during the day. I want to emphasize this, and to say that you can do nothing better than to establish night schools.

say that you can do nothing better than to establish night schools.

The officials of this city should understand that the offices are not created for their special benefit, or that, once in office, they have nothing else to do but to perpetuate themselves and friends in office. This city is entitled to all of the time and the best service of those in office. This government should not be for a favored few, but all are entitled to share its benefits.

Manufacturers should be encouraged to come to our city and establish themselves. Atlanta is one of the best distributing points in the south, and I am satisfied that a little encouragement would bring men of brains and means within our borders to manufacture what is needed in this broad land of ours.

it can be under the strictest surveilla

POLICE STATION.

POLICE STATION.

The present police station should be sold, and a new one established that will give all the room and accommodation required. It may be best to consider the propriety of having two stations, one on each side. The city is growing, and many consider two necessary now.

EQUALIZATION OF TAXES.

I am informed, by one who ought to know, that personal property does not bear its just proportion of taxation as compared with real estate. Our tax assessors should give particular attention to this and see that proper returns are made of personal property. There should be an equalization of taxes. The humble home in the outskirts should not be made to pay more in proportion than valuable central property.

There is much confusion in our city about the manuscript same after structure.

should not be made to pay more in proportion than valuable central property.

NUMBERING OF HOUSES AND NAMING OF STREETS.

There is much confusion in our city about the names of some of the streets and the numbering of the houses. Some of the streets are duplicated in their names, and many houses have the same number, and many have no number at all. Some good plan should be devised and put into execution at once to remedy all of these defects.

The efficiency of our fire and police departments should be kept up to the present high standard.

In regard to the cemetery the officers of Westview cemetery declare it is their purpose to furnish burial lots at reasonable prices, and that they are willing that a committee from this body should investigate their plans and prices. Another company has been formed and the land purchased to establish a cemetery near the city. So, between these two cemeteries, our citizens may expect reasonable prices to be charged for places to bury their dead; but if no general satisfactory arrangement can be made, I will then recommend that the city own and control a new cemetery. And I would suggest that this council at once take steps to perfect arrangements with these companies to insure forever reasonable rates for burial lots to people of moderate means.

NEW RAILROADS.

In the next two years several new railroads will enter the city. These roads will require terminal facilities. We should encourage and aid them all we can in acquiring proper terminal facilities.

The question of annexing West End to Atlanta should be considered by this council. I believe that it would be to the advantage of both for this to be consummated. I am sure that some mutual plan can be agreed upon that will be acceptable to both. West End needs her powerful and wealthy neighbor to give her those advantages and opportunities that she cannot obtain of hersolf. Atlanta wants her bright and sprightly and wealthy neighbor to give her those advantages and opportunities that she cannot obtain of hersolf. Atlanta wants her bright and sprightly suburb for another jewel in her crown.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

There was spent in this department last year over $45,000. This is an immense sum of money (and it is increasing yearly) to spend annually for lighting the city. I have lately been investigating the cost of electric plants, and I am satisfied that one can be established at a cost of about $125,000. It will require about $20,000 to maintain and run this plant, leaving to the city the handsome saving annually of $25,000, which will pay for it in a few years. The matter is such an important one, and the expenditure is so large, that I deem it a good business measure for the city to own and control its own electric plant.

business measure for the city to own and control its own electric plant.

I believe it is the general sentiment of our citizens that we hold up a little on belgian block paving. The central or business portion is now well paved, better than any city in the south. Some of the usual appropriations for paving should go to other important branches that have been somewhat neglected. I doubt the policy of paving some of the outside streets unless the petition is unanimously signed or nearly so.

CONCLUSION.

CONCLUSION.

Now, gentlemen, let us take hold of these and other important matters that you in your wisdom may suggest, in a business way, and push them to completion.

may suggest, in a business way, and push them to completion.

Let us be impartial in our work, doing for one side as cheerfully as we would for the other, spending an equal and just part of the taxes in each ward.

The motto that should guide us in all of our public enterprises is to get what is best and most permanent for the least possible cost, leaving no room for suspicion of undue favor or useless expenditure.

Our constituents will not call it extravagance when they can see beneficial results; but should

Our constituents will not call it extravagance when they can see beneficial results; but should we spend our immense revenues in salaries and unimportant work and have nothing to show for it at the end of our administration, we may expect a righteous indignation to be visited on us.

Let us work in perfect harmony, and what we do let it be effective, so as to give the people the contained important results they so confidently do let it be effective, so as to give the people the great and important results they so confidently Expect of this able general council.

"Mr. Mayor: I thank my friend and colleague councilman for the implied honor in plaeing me in nomination for mayor pro tem. I also thank my other colleagues who have so kindly proffered me their support for this position; but, sir, I am constrained to decline the honor of serving longer in this capacity, for the reason that my term of alderman ends with the present year, and I feel that my duty to the people of Atlanta who have so generously honored me, demands that I give to the public service the best work within my power. This work, I am persuaded to believe, I can more fully doon the floor, where I can actively participate in the deliberations of this body. this account of the plan it proposes to adopt in operating its cars:

The permanent way or track upon which the wheels of the cars run is one and a half inch cable, of steel wire rope, supported by posts not less than sixty feet apart, near the edge of the sidewalk, about in line with the electric light or telephone poies, from which arms are fastened bolsters to hold the said cable track; or should it be required that this cable track shall be so located that the cars running thereon shall pass along the center of the streets, this track cable will be supported by cross cables stretched from posts on each side of the street, from which cross cables hangers of suitable shape and strength will depend to hold said track cable. Cars are suspended below the permanent cable described above by two wheels attached to strong iron bands which encircle the body of the cars, and from six to eighteen inches above the surface of the ground, except when crossing railroads, etc. Attached to each car are clutches and brakes operated by a system of levers to start and stop the cars at will. The Strange Conduct of a South Carolin Officer-The Meeting of Richmond Superior Court.

AUGUSTA, Ga., January 5 .- [Special.]-A. N.

Black, an attache of the asylum at columbia, S. C., arrived here with an escaped patient named Silas Brogden, who was put in the asylum from Edgefield, S. C. Black brought his man to the station house, and put him up.

He left him at the station house and went off to get him some support. Leta at wight Black hed. He left him at the station house and went off to get him some supper. Late at night Black had not turned up and the police went to look for him. He was found in a restaurant drunk and asleep. When brought to the station house he was told to go to the jail, with some sharp comments on his conduct by the lieutenant in charge. Black put his man in a cold room in the station house and left him there to freeze. The lunatic was unable to help himself and had to go without any supper while the man who had him in charge took in the town with Jack Vandiver, one of the characters that policemen are quite tamiliar with. Chief of Police Hood wrote this morning reporting the matter to the keeper of the asylum.

The Superior Court.

The Superior Court.

The superior court of Richmond county convened this morning at 10 o'clock, with Judge H. C. Roney presiding. Judge Roney's charge to the grand jury was clear and forcible. He recommended emphatically a new courthouse and police station. This will be welcome news to Augusta people, as the present building is weefully inadequate for the strains that are put upon it. The judge gave a great deal of attention to gaming.

Gaming is growing to be a tremendous evil in Augusta, and is conducted almost openly, and a member of the eity council owns an interest in the Central hotel, in which building Sherlock was shot over a game of cards. Judge Roney said that in his opinion the previous grand jury had done their duty, but the fault lay with the city council. This was a strong indetment, and created quite an excitement in the courtroom.

The present grand jury will no doubt wake up to the situation and return true bills accordingly. The judge touched lightly on carrying concealed weapons and vagrancy. The latter, he said, was a curse that was falling heavily on the cities.

The following is the grand jury for this term of court:

T. A. Stafford, foreman; D. L. Fullerton, J. L. The Superior Court.

Court:

T.A. Stafford, foreman; D. L. Fullerton, J. L. Henry, J. B. Dougherty, J. C. Flynn, William Schweigrt, G. N. Hancock, A. B. Saxon, N. L. Willett, Asbury Hull, James Barrett, Simon Lesser, A. F. Pendleton F. G. Ford, H. F. Schneiker, R. E. Allen, J. L. Gow, N. K. Butler, W. J. Cranston, J. A. A. W. Clark, A. S. Morris, F. H. Stafford, N. H. Fulgrum, C. V. Walker.

After the usual organization of the court was effected, memorial exercises were held, in memory of the late Hon. Clay Foster. Resolutions offered by a committee, composed of Salem Dutcher, chairman, J. C. C. Black, C. Henry Cohen and William C. Davidson, were spread upon the minutes of the court. Able tributes were paid to Mr. Foster's memory by Salem Dutcher, J. C. C. Black, C. Henry Cohen, J. R. Lamar, F. W. Capers, Eb. T. Williams, C. P. Fressly and H. Geibner, after which Judge Roney, in a few appropriate remarks, adjourned court for the day, in honor of Mr. Foster's memory.

Judge Roney's charge, particularly the part referring to gambling, stirred up the city and the city officials considerably. Your correspondent called upon several gentlemen to get their views upon the matter. Mr. J. R. Lamar, member of the present council, when asked for his views in reference to the judge's charge as to the responsibility of the city council for gambling in the city, said: "I think he failed to recognize the distinction between the council and the police commission. I have never understood that the council had anything to do with the criminal laws of the state. The city only touches that department through the police commission. Council is responsible for the personnel of the commission, but council can neither elect a policeman or discharge him, nor can we limit the term of the commissioners. I think the grand jury is quite as much to blame as any city officer, and can do more to break it up than all other departments of the city and county government together. If, as you say, the judge's charge has stirred up the people I am glad of it, as I am sure he is, too."

Mr. Jerre Flynn, chairman of the board of

he is, too."

Mr. Jerre Flynn, chairman of the board of police commissioners, said that gambling was certainly a growing evil, judging from what he heard, and if there was any blame he was free to acknowledge it should be laid at the door of the commission.

The city council meeting tonight was the first regular meeting of the new year, and the mayor's regular meeting of the new year, and the mayor's annual message was read.

Immediately after adjournment the council was called to order again, to elect a police commissioner. The fight is most hotly contested. Up to tonight eighty-four hallots had been taken and no majority given for either man. On the eighty-ninth ballot Mr. Smith put Mr. W. M. Dunbar in nomination, and the "reformers" teft McKenzie and went in a body to Dunbar. On the ninety-second ballot the vote stood: Hemphill, 7; Dunbar, 7. At this time the council adjourned until the next regular meeting.

Lieutenant Garlington's Chances.—Said Assistant District Attorney Angier yesterday:

"I have seen a letter from General Schofheld to Colonel Buck, and, judging from its tenor. Lieutenant Garlington's chances of being breveted are very flattering. The South Carolina papers are trying to rob Georgia of her glory, by claiming the brave soldier. Ernest Garlington was born in South Carolina, it is true, but he came to Georgia when quite a boy, was educated in Georgia and went to West Point from the ninth district. Georgia always gets there.

The County Election.—Tomarrow is the day for the election of county officers. The question of candidacy having been settled by a primary, very little interest is being exhibited in the election. Judge Calhoun will have the preliminaries all arranged by tonight.

VAN HOUTEN'S GOCOA

"BEST & GOES FARTHEST."

Now that its manufacturers are drawing the attention of the American public to this first and, ever since its invention, the best of all cocoas, it will soon be appreciated here as well as elsewhere all over the world. All that the manufacturers request is simply one trial, or, still better, a comparative test with whatever other cocoa it may be; then VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA itself will convince every one of its great superiority. It is because of this superiority that the English paper Health, says: "Once tried, always used."

To avoid the evil effects of Tes and Coffee, use constantly VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA, which is a STRENGTHENER of the NERVES and a refreshing and nourishing boverage. [52]

CIVIL, AND MINING ENGINEERS om No. 69, Gate City National Bank bui

There will be a very interesting case before the Georgia state railroad commission today. It comes up in the shape of a petition from the lumber men of Georgia, and wears a familiar face, for the case is by no means a new The case, as filed with the clerk of the railmmission, is written thus on the record

"The Georgia Sawmill Association vs. Rail-

Following are the chief claims set forth in the petition:

1. A reduction on lumber freight over all;the railroads of the state. 2. Cars for loading must be delivered within a reasonable time, after they are ordered, and the time stipulated is seventy-two hours.

3. When lumber cars are ordered, and coal cars are sent by the road to a sawmill, the railroad company must pay the additional expense in-curred in loading, the lumber cars being easier to load, according to the claims of the sawmill

JUST AS ONE ROAD. The fourth claim in the petition is that the several routes of a syndicate should be treated as one railroad as far as mileage goes. This means that when lumber must be taken over two roads, the rate must be regulated the same as though the freight had gone over but one road the same distance.

This is an issue that has more than once been before the rathroad commission, coming not only from the lumbermen, but from the merchants and general tradesmen as well. It is a big question, and will engage much of the attention of the commissioners at their meeting today at the capital.

It has already been decided in favor of the railreads by the commission that no reduction in lumber rates should be granted, and no reg-ulation should be made in rates over two or more reads. The suit before the commissioners this morning will therefore cause all the more in

The commissioners will meet at the capitol this morning.

Several tax fl. fas. were issued by the comptroller general yesterday against railroads running into the city of Atlanta, for taxes due Fulton county, in accordance with the provisions of the law requiring the roads to pay county tax.

The Georgia Railroad Company claims that according to their charter there cannot be an advalorem tax collected on its property, and that not more than one-half of 1 per cent can be levied on their income.

Pulmonary Diseases.

Pulmonary Diseases.

The lungs play a most important part in the machinery of life. It is essential that they should be kept in good repair. Nature has endowed this organ of life with wonderful recuperative power. Many instances are on record where the lungs have been shot through with a leaden bullet and the wound quickly healing. Therefore none should despair when they discover that their lungs are affected. Frequently the lungs become sore and ulcerated and by an ignorant doctor pronounced consumption and worthless remedies applied, with serious results. When the lungs feel sore and breathing painful the proper remedy is Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla. Its tendency is to heal all ulcerations either internal or external. Many an invalid whose case was pronounced hopeless has been restored to vigorous health by a timely use of this excellent compound. If you will not try this remedy you have only yourself to blame if you do not get well.

IT WAS MURDER.

The Finding of the Coroner's Jury Yester-The coroner's inquest over the body of Louis Matthews, the negro cook killed at the Kimball house Sunday morning, was concluded yesterday

Nothing in addition to what has already been printed was developed.

After carefully considering all the evidence adduced before the jury during the sessions of Sunday and yesterday, a verdict charging Doc Long with murder was found. Since Long's escape from the Kimball house kitchen, just after he cut Matthews, nothing has been heard of him.

Few plays have ever come to Atlanta with a heartier recommendation than Denman Thompson's, which will be presented at the opera house on Wednesday and Thursday at matinee and evenings, and of which so much has been written. The ipart of Joshua Whitcomb will be taken by Archie Royd, who the press say is as near Denman Thompson as it is possible for man to be. A special matinee will be given Thursday.

Rheumatism is a certain indication of acid condition of the blood. Hood's Sarsapalla neutralizes this and gives the vital fluid the quality, quantity and color of health. Try it.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

NOTICE

The Queen and Crescent route is the shortest, quickest, cheapest and best line to all points west. I do not ask you to look at our map to prove to you that our line is the shortest. You can take the map of all other lines leading to Texas and you will see that they give us almost an air-line from Atlanta to Fort Worth, Tex., passing through Birmingham, Meridian, Vicksburg and Shreve-port, or New Orleans. This line being the shortest, of course it is the quickest, and it being the quickest, you know it is the cheapest, and being the cheapest it is the best line.

Why, just think of this, only two changes of Louisiana or Texas.

est, you know it is the cheapest, and being the cheapest it is the best line.

Why, just think of this, only two changes of cars Atlanta to Fort Worth, Tex., on all of our regular trains. The Queen and Crescent route makes special low rates to all emigrants moving west. Emigrants going this line are put in first-class coaches, baggage checked through to destination. One hundred and fifty pounds of baggage checked free with each whole ticket; seventy-five pounds to each half ticket. Agents of this line will meet emigrants at the nearest railroad station with through tickets and through check, and will accompany them to Atlanta and see that they are put on the fast limited train for the west. Uncle Jim Parrish Was Elected to the Police Force.

Police Force.

Uncle Jim Parrish.

Nearly everybody in Atlanta knows him.

For twenty years he has worn a policeman's uniform, and during that time he has always been faithful to his trust.

Probably no policeman ever made a better record than Uncle Jim. During his twenty years of continuous service he has never been suspended for unofficer-like conduct or failure to perform his duty.

He began policing in Atlanta twenty-eight years ago, and is now one of two only living men who were on the force at that time.

re on the force at that time. Uncle Jim will be fifty-four years old on the 29th of March next, and is still hale and hearty— one of the best and cleverest men who ever wore a whole department.

He is an honor to the force, and that he will live to serve many more years, a faithful public servant, is the wish of all.

We Wish You a Happy, Happy New Year January, 1891! How the years roll by! April 8, 1886, we launched our name before the Atlanta public with the announcement that our stock was the largest in the city, our prices lower, our sys-tem more complete. We further announced that anything and everything usually kept in a firstclass grocery stock could be found at our store. Since that time we have added all new desirable articles of diet that have come to notice. We are articles or diet that have come to notice. We are safe in saying that we have enjoyed, during these four years, the largest retail trade of any grocery house in the south, who dealt exclusively in groceries. Our recent Christmas trade was phenomenated to the control of the co enal. It exceeded our most sanguine expecta-tions. Goods rolled out fast, and money with equal swiftness filled our coffers. So much for the past years, now for 1891. Do you want bargains? Do you want first-class groceries? If so, you can get both at our store. We are still offering the finest, best quality of Jersey butter, worth 50 cents per pound, for 35 cents. Why pay 50 cents for a Jersey butter just because some name is printed across the top? 'Tis said there's nothing in a name. In this instance it is a loss of about 15 cents on every pound of butter used. Now, my friends, come to our store, test our atter, and if it does not prove satisfactory do not buy it. We positively guarantee it to be the equal of any butter in the market sold equal of any butter in the market sold for 50 cents per pound. Then again, we say to some of you, and with perfect deference, that you do not know what a fine quality tea is until you have used our own blend Talo Tea. It is absolutely without a match—an equal in all Atlanta. Do not be skep-tical now, but said and tre-non-fourthof a pound. match—an equal in all Atlanta. Do not be skeptical now, but send and try one-fourth of a pound. We state most emphatically it will pay you to do so, and if we made a practice of laying wagers, we would stake our—reputation that the quality would elicit comment from every one partaking of it, whether at private residence or boarding flouse. Oh! the stuff that is sold for tea at sonie of our stores! They cannot help it, though; they are not judges, and it was sold by some gentlemanly "knight of the grip," who recommended it as the best.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 6, 1891.

Mayor Hemphill's Inaugural. The inaugural address of Hon. W. A. Hemphill. Atlanta's new mayor, is a notaable speech, characterized by liberal and progressive views, business foresight and sound public policy. Mayor Hemphill makes a number of recommendations and suggestions of a very timely and important nature, and it strikes us that in the main the general council and our people will be heartily in secordance with him. Starting out with in earnest plea for judicious economy, he emphasizes, among our needed improvements, the necessity of a pure and full water supply from some convenient stream-a supply that will give the city all the water it needs for years to come. The pressing exigency of the case makes pur citizens unanimous upon this point. The city is rapidly growing, and we must have good water and an adequate supply.

The importance of continuing our main ewers to or beyond the corporate limits s urged as a sanitary safeguard against contagious and malignant diseases, and the recommendation carries its own endorsement with it.

In the matter of the proposed Forsyth street bridge, it is suggested that the unty should pay a portion of the cost The fact that Atlanta pays about 90-100 of the tax of the county is mentioned s a sufficient reason for such action, ecially as the bridge will be of great efulness to the county. This highway of travel and traffic crossing the railways is generally used by the people of the They suffer from its present in nveniences and dangers, and will enjoy benefits of the proposed improve-

The new mayor believes that the annexation of West End would be mutually advantageous to that beautiful suburb and to Atlanta. In his opinion some plan of annexation can be agreed upon that will be acceptable to both.

Electric lighting is now a great public convenience, and a costly one. Last year it cost the city over $45,000, and the expense is increasing yearly. Mayor Hempnill has investigated the cost of electric plants, and he is satisfied that it will pay the city to maintain its own plant. n fact, he shows in plain black and thite how $25,000 a year can be savednder such a system.

Altogether, it is a hopeful, bright and siness-like inaugural. It breathes the pirit of conomy without ignoring the mportant improvements which are a part of the busy life and progress of a great ty. It is a sound document, and we annot do better than to pull together for Atlanta on the line of march so visely mapped out. If we do it, the year 91 will be a memorable one in our an-

The Sweet Singer Silenced.

The death of that sweet singer, Emma Abbott, will leave a void in many a heart, hat beat responsive to her thrilling cadences. None of the daughters of music held a varmer place in the hearts of Americans, or vas so universally admired.

Her death will be deplored in hundreds of ities where her voice has thrilled and reved erchanted audiences. Wherever ong finds utterance and the strings of softd instruments are attuned to earth-born nelodies she will be missed and lamented. The genius of Emma Abbott has done uch for the musical world, and for the world that knew no music. Her voice has oftened human hearts, and the world is beter for her singing. She was a womanly oman. Her life was not alone in the glare of the stage lights, in the applause of a thea-It was more beautiful than that - a life f faith and love and devotion to duty.

Here in Atlanta, where she was so well nown, the beautiful dead singer will be enderly remembered.

Splendid were her triumphs, which will uger in memory like echoes of her sweet and silvery songs. Her mission was to touch the heart through the entrancing music of the voice. This she has done, and though that voice is silent now, and so must be forever, the singer will not be forgotten.

The Force Bill's Fate.

So the force bill is shelved! Shoved aside by a vote of 34 to 29! Eight western republican senators voted with the democrats, and the infamous federal election scheme had to give place to financial legislation.

This is what Hoar and his allies have been dreading all the time. They have exhausted all their energies in trying to rush the force bill through before the burning issue of financial relief claimed the attention of the senate. They have virtually admitted that if their pet measure was once laid aside to give financial matters precedence, it would be forever

Just what these malignant partisans most feared has come to pass. The demand of the people of both sections and both parties for financial reform has forced the senate to take the matter up. At a time when it was admitted that the cotton crop of the peaceful and prosperous south had saved the country from the most disastrous panic of the century, good men everywhere sent in their protests against any legislation that would oppress and injure a section so loyal and so prosperous, and such an important factor of the nation's wealth.

The capitalists of the country spoke up for the south. Their investments were concerned. Statesmen · joined them; the business men of the north and west took action, and the people through their representatives called a halt in the new crusade against the south.

Possibly the bill may come up again. but its advocates despair of success. When the senate turned its back yesterday upon the policy of force, and went to work on the real business of the day, Hoar and his fellow-conspirators gave up all hope. The revolutionists have been driven back, and the republic of our fathers still lives!

Ex-Mayor Glenn. When Hon. John T. Glenn left mayor's chair, yesterday, he left it with the consciousness of having discharged his whole duty, without fear or favor. His farewell words were characteristic of the man. But his official record speaks for itself. It is flawless. Atlanta never had a mayor who, from first to ast, gave greater satisfaction.

Ex-Mayor Glenn holds a high place in the esteem of his fellow-citizens. He has worked gallantly for Atlanta, and Atlanta will not forget it. There can be no rest for such a man in private life. The people will not allow him to long remain out of harness. The ex-mayor will be called into the service of the public again before he has fully realized the fact that he is trying to take a rest.

Rev. Dr. G. B. Strickler occupied the chair. The first thing done was the arranging of the reck of prayer, beginning last night, at the First Presbyterian church, and continuing every night during the week.

Then a call was distributed among all the ninisters, asking that each and every one of them search out the non-church-goers from among his flock, so that proper measures may be brought to bear upon such individuals to nduce them to attend religious services every Sunday at some church.

The Issue of the Day. Red-Hot Resolutions.

Red-Hot Resolutions.

Following immediately on the heels of this, ame some red-hot resolutions in regard to the chearsal of "The Dead Heart" combination Sun-lap evening, at DeGive's.

Dr. Hawthorne had called the attention of the neeting to the account of the rehearsal in yeserday's Construction.

Rev. Virgil Norcross moved that Dr. Hawthorne asked to draw up, resolutions, in recent to the Rev. Virgil Norcross moved that Dr. Hawthorne be asked to draw up resolutions in regard to the matter, and put them before the association. Dr. Hawthorne rehearsed the story, saying that an advertisement appeared in The Evening Journal, calling for twenty women and forty men to meet at DeGive's opera house Sunday evening, to assist in the rehearsal of a theatrical company. He said that the publishing of the advertisement was, in itself, an offense to the Christian people of the community. And when this was followed by the actual rehearsal, on the Lord's day, the offense was far more serious.

He hoped that Atlanta had not yet reached that point on the downward course when theatrical companies would be allowed to that point on the downward course when theatrical companies would be allowed to descerate the Lord's day with their performances. He thought that the people who are striving to uphold the old standard of virtue ought to pro-test against such a thing. Rev. Mr. Norcross then read the resolutions in-

He was against the using of the Sabbath as a 'spare day,' for holding society meetings, oblitical meetings and lectures on worldly sub-olitical meetings and lectures on worldly subcts. He even went beyond that and entered a protest against the holding of political meetings on the temperance or political questions, to win sympathy and support on the eve of an election of

THE ELECTRIC COMMITTEE. The committee reports: Amount appropri-ated to this department, $45,000; amount expended $13,680.02, leaving balance of $1,320.98. The total volume of light furnished the city is 383,110-candle power, which is an increase in the year of 31,518. There are in use 176 are lights and 494 series lights of 65-candle power each, these costing $3,736 a month. Two are lights cost as much as five of the smaller size, and the committee recommends the general usy of the smaller ones in all streets not lighted. As to charters for street railroads, a continuation of the policy of requiring roads to which street rights are granted to finish the work within a specified time. They call attention to the fact that there is nobody whose official duty it is to look after lights, and recommend that in case any such person is appointed, a man versed in electrical matters be chosen.

THE CITY ENGINEER. The report of the city engineer shows that there have been laid during 1890, 4.8 miles of granite have been laid during 1890, 4.8 miles of granite block, telford and rubble pavements, amounting to $149,244.74. Of this amount, the street railroad companies have paid $31,257.92; the property owners abutting on the streets improved, $39,332.27, and the city from general tax, $78,664.55. This makes a total mileage of streets paved of 32.89 miles. It also shows that 14.27 miles of sidewalks have been laid at a total cost of $45,520.45; all of which is assessed against the property, and shows 106.52 miles as the total length of sidewalks and curbing laid in the city. It also shows 5.37 miles of sewers laid, varying in size from eight inches to eight feet in diameter, at a total cost of $88,092.19. Of this amount $42,408.94 is assessed against the property, and $45,683.26 is paid from the general tax.

THE CITY ATTORNEY. City Attorney Goodwin's report, briefly sum-marized, shows that during the year suits against marized, shows that during the year suits against the city, amounting to $224,300, have been disposed of by verdicts and settlements, these costing $8,063.74. Of the cases tried verdicts amounting to $2,863.74, and the settlements, $5,200. He reviews the waterworks case, and says that the issue of bonds under the last election is legal. Pending litigation of note is discussed at some length. THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Chief Joyner's report is full and interesting. The department answered 225 alarms, forty-six more than in 1889. The increase in the work of the department is shown by the increase in the tumber of alarms, which were: In 1885, 105; 1886, 142; 1887, 161; 1888, 157; 1889, 179; 1890, 225. A total for the period Chief Joyner has held the office of 999. April showed the most alarms, thirty-seven: for the period Chief Joyner has held the office of 569. April showed the most alarms, thirty-seven; September the smallest number, eleven. Defective flues have still a strong lead in the causes of alarms, being forty-seven. Carelessness is close with thirty-two, and unknown with thirty. Total value of property at risk, $2,309.07. Total surrance on property at risk, $2,509.07. Total surrance on building, $41,944; on contents, $67.811; total, $109,755. The largest fire was the Ghoistin, Haas & Gutiman fire, the loss being $65.552, or more than half the total loss for the year. The department cost $65,300. Twelve new men were added during the year, making the total in the department seventy. Only one man was discharged from the department during the year. The chief praises the city's action in insuring the lives of the men and hopes this will be continued. He urges the purchase of four new hose wagons at once as these are much better and safer than reels. He says the department should have proper reels. He says the department should have proper headquarters; that the alarm telegraph system

THE AUDITOR AND RECORDER. The report of Judge E. C. Kontz, auditor and recorder, made reference to the comptroller's office and pointed out the work it took from the auditor. The police courtroom was condemned in the paper for several reasons. A bailiff for the police courtroom was demanded. The number of cases disposed of was discussed. The new law by which nuisance cases are taken to the police court was discussed. Two police courts were demanded. The report suggests that the mayor be authorized to select one member of the general council to preside at police court sessions in the absence of the recorder. The recorder made suggestions as to eating houses, liquor licenses, costs in police court, catele running at large, the stockade, sanitary arrangement and the proposed reformatory. It also suggested a chapel for the stockade.

FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL.

Charles D. Barker on Trial in the Superior Court. Charles D. Barker, publisher of The Southern Charles D. Barker, published of the Scattlers Star, was put upon trial on a charge of criminal libel yesterday.

The suit grew out of the late senatorial election. Barker's paper is a temperance sheet, and advocated the election of Hon. Robert Todd against Hon. W. H. Venable.

During the course of the campaign, the paper became very litter in its attacks, and one or two of its articles, purported to have been written by G. K. Woodward, were of such a nature that they reflected on Air. Venable's private and public character alike.

After the contest was over, and while the Star was shining with renewed luster in consequence of the victory of Mr. Todd, the grand jury found an indictment for criminal libel against Earker.

At the same time indictments were found an indictment for criminal fiel against Earker.

At the same time indictments were found against J. M. George and E. M. Evans, publishers of the Prohibitionist, on the same charges.

The parties all gave bond for their appearance at the superior court. Saturday the work was completed by the finding of the indictment against G. K. Woodward, as author of the libel-completed by the finding of the indictment against G. K. Woodward, as author of the libelous language published in The Star.

Mr. C. T. Ladson, Mr. W. J. Albert and Judge Will Haight appeared for the defense.

The case went to the jury late in the afternoon, and the jury not having made a verdict at 6 o'clock, Judge Marshall J. Clarke instructed them, if a verdict was found before morning, to seal it and place it in the hands of the foreman, to be rendered to the court this morning.

The cases against Mesers. George, Evans and Woodward will probably be tried this week.

THE ALLIANCE TODAY.

PRESIDENT LIVINGSTON DEFINES ITS POSITION AT FAYETTEVILLE.

-The He Tells Its Progress and Dangers Farmers Have the Whip Hand in Finance-Strife Dangerous.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., January 5 .- [Special.] The county alliance monthly meeting here today was the occasion of a visit from Presi-. F. Livingston, of the state alliance. After the secret work had been finished, the public was invited to hear an address from Colonel Livingston, who held the attention of the audience for an hour and a quarter.

This speech, being his first elaborate public utterance since his election and the Ocala convention, delivered as it was by a congressnan-elect, was heard with special interest. He addressed the people at the courthouse substantially as follows:

"By invitation of your representative, I am here to meet you, and it is a pleasant duty. This order of ours is peculiar and has a peculiar history. It is young, and for its age, has been more harshly judged than any organization ever presented to the mind of man. We have heard a great deal said about the alliance that was unpleasant, and a great deal that was untrue. A great many prophesies have been made which we hope will not come true.

"It seems to me that no outside man would dare lift his yodge in censure or abuse when he rememubstantially as follows:

"it seems to me that no outside man would dare lift his voice in censure or abuse when he remembers that this institution is born of necessity. Men have murtured organizations for a purpose, and they have always been failures; but a movement which rises out of necessity cannot be put down. There has been a great deal said about a third party. I want to make this prophecy about that. When the people are ripe for it, it will be born, and all the politicians can't defeat it; but no one part of days of men can set up a political party. and all the politicians can't defeat it; but no one man or dozen of men can set up a political party and lead it to success. These things don't grow that way. So you need not be afraid of a few men fixing a political party and carrying it to success. Take the old greenback party as an illustration. I could mention 1,000 instances.

"These things must come into the world born of necessity, and when it so comes, all the politicians and parties can't keep it down.

"Was this the concoction of brains interested personally? If so, you, on the outside, can fight ersonally? If so, you, on the outside, can fight t down quick, but if it came from the people it and to be the people it and to be men are iven credit for the great religious reformation, out it came of necessity.

"This order of ours must be judged by its principles, as church creeds are judged by the Bible. If you alliancemen have been so superficial as never to have examined the groundwork of this order. I beg you to do it. We must not build upon sand. If you have not studied the principles and been to nave examined the groundwork of this order, I beg you to do it. We must not build upon sand. If you have not studied the principles and been convinced that they were right, you may be swept out of the order, but the allianceman who is conscientiously of opinion that these principles are right cannot be moved.

"Look well to the platform. Is it right to advant ok well to the platform. Is it right to educate "Look well to the platform. Is it right to educate the people? I don't think any one will dispute that. Our platform says the people who granted franchises to transportation companies ought to control them. Is that right?

"Then take the question of finance. Never before has there been injected into a platform the principle of flexible currency which seems to have confounded and dumfound the world. I am not surprised that some people are slow to accept it, but many who ridiculed it a year ago are studying it now. Take Mr. Windom for instance. He said to Judge Stewart that the subtreasury plan was unconstitutional and impracticable. A He said to Judge Stewart that the subtreasury plan was unconstitutional and impracticable. A few days ago in his message, he said that this flexible principle must be incorporated in the currency of the country. There he is, a convert. He says it in ambiguous phrases, because it is not very creditable for those great big fellows to learn from you hayseed people. I said twelve months ago that the time would come when no statesman would dispute the fact that the principle of supply and demand applies to currency. I repeat it today. I don't say all able minds concede it now; but they are coming to it.

The Credit System Must Go. titled to a year's support when he dies. The mer hant has to take that risk, and their isn't a mortgage that can come in before the allowance of the court. The credit system is expensive to both buyer and seller.

"The alliance platform is this: Let the government put money in circulation to do the business of the country. We need not fuss about the basis of the currency. We thought cotton was the best basis, but we won't quarrel about it. There was a great deal of fun made of that, but cotton is the only commodity that brings gold in the market, priced absolutely upon a gold basis in Liverpool. Some think real estate is the proper basis. My objection to that is that it does not give a permanent currency. If you issue too much or too little it is permanent, and the evil continues. ouver and seller.

nuch or too little it is permanent, and the evil onthines.

"My idea of a basis is whatever is made that is to e sold and eat and worn, which must be conumed—not diamonds, but absolute necessities.

"That currency will be measured by those prouts. If the products are large the currency rill be large, and if small the currency will be small." Don't that fit? When you have 5,000,000 bales of cotton bringing 9 ents, if 10,000,000 bales come to market, with o more money to buy, it will take the price down ne-half, which will be 4½ cents, independent of he demanda. If I brung 100 busles of rotatoes one-half, which will be 4½ cents, independent of the demanda If I bring 100 bushels of potatoes and 100 men have $100 and are anxious to buy, I will get $1 a bushel. If only $50 is here to buy, I I will only get 50 cents a bushel; and if $25 is all he money on hand, I will get only 25 cents. The purchasing power of money increases with the second of the contract o its scarcity. Nobody says 8,000,000 ba will be an eversupply. The best av this country and Europe say it is not.

Judge the Alliance by Its Fruits. "If a man comes to make a partnership with I investigate him first. The same rule should ply to our order. Inquire first, the principle; what have these alliancemen been doing?" I they done anything to commend them to world? I heard a man say today; I am a creg world? I heard a man say today: 'I am a cropper, and I have been losing til lately. I have three bales of cotton and enough corn to do me.' He is sitting here now. If only twenty men had done that the results now and hereafter would be worth all your trouble. Instead of twenty men there are 25,000; yes, 50,000 farmers in Georgia who will tell you they are better off on account of the alliance. The whole country is better off. You merchants are benefited. You may not sell as many goods; but some of you have been selling too many. I know you are having better collections and doing well on what you sell.

know you are having better collections and doing well on what you sell,
"John H. Imman said the other day that he was astonished to find more money in the country than in the cities, especially more than in Wall street and New York. That's quite an admission for Mr. Imman. I am going to tell you something—don't you do it, though. The farmer's can hold their cotton ninety days and break every honk in this country.

them. The time was wich they could sell your setuif out under the hammer, but now, thank God, they can't do it.

"There is only one bank in Atlanta that has money enough to pay all its depositors if they made a run on it, but there is no need to be uneasy. I don't want to shake your confidence in the banks. We need more confidence.

"If this time han come three years ago, it would have ruined you. Now, thank God, you are strong enough to sit still and wait."

Here Mr. W. S. Brown arose and said that be had wed in the county for forty-seven years, and was lways involved; now he had eight bales of cotton always involved; now he had eight daies of could always involved; now he had eight daies of councied with an order that was not improving the people. I was over," said Colonel Livingston, continuing. "If thad called farmers into this house three years ago and talked to them, I might as well have talked Latin. Now there is not a farmer who attends his lodge who cannot point out the inflamous defects of the McKinley bill. A few years ago if an appropriation was proposed for public schools some fellow would proposed for public schools some fellow would be the first largestature and say: "You want to offil. A few years ago it an appropriation was reposed for public schools some fellow would get up in the legislature and say: 'You want to chool the higger?' Now, thank God, we have assed such depths of prejudice. Your farmers egislature voted appropriations for the Technoogical school and the industrial school, and voted to the public of a grount of the second control of the second of the the money held back on account of ille from the negro colleges to a new instituti from the negro colleges to a new institution for them.

"Today Georgia is pointed to with pride all over the country. It can entrof the suballiances." He referred to the bagging contest. "Thank God, said he, for the test of your backbone. There were outsiders who said we were a set of gunps to pay $1 more. The outsider got it for 6% cents when he would have had to pay 13% cents. He made by our sacrifice and then abused us."

"Last fall when the cotton future men determined to drop the price of cotton to 8 cents, a few of us met at the Kimbal house and sprung a trap, and it kept the price of cotton up all over this southern country. Still the outsiders ridiculed the poor hayseed farmers for diekering with cotton.

"I can't tell you all about our manufacturing enterprises. At Columbus you will see the factory to make barging and at Griffin you will see the oil mill and factory and $55,000 in cash to put up a bank. I can't tell you all we've done, but I'll tell you one got somebody scared, and they are up in the top of the trees about to jump. I reckon in Europe they know your platform better than you do. In Wall street they discuss it night after night. They say 'they are intelligent and they are in cernest and they have got the power'—well that's enough to scare anybody—and you'll well that schemes you'll see a fing of truce sent out.

"They say you are all right on everything but the subtreasury, and that's rotten. Well, you get across the barrel and let somebody take it to you, and you'll see whether it's rotten or not. [Langhter.] They abuse the leaders, and say they sold out for $50,000. I notice none of them abuse the order. I reckon that is because "We, as democrats, are going to vote in the democratic party, and when we find a man who is on our line we will vote for him for senator. It demonstrate we will vote for him for senator. It there anything wrong in that?

"At first they were afraid we would form a third party; but when we went into the democratic party; but when we went into the democratic party and captured it, they got mad. [Laughter.] We went into the primaries, not fixed by alliancemen, but by regular authorities. When it turned out that the alliancemen were the democratic party they got mad. We are not going to disrupt parties. Therefore stop talking about politics and take our word for our good intentions. When whave done so much good, and we promise to disgood in the future, don't you think it's mean to donbt our word?

"Is there a man mean enough to say he wants to see the poor negro get just enough to eat and the see the poor negro get just enough to eat and the poor white man get just enough? I hope there's not a man mean enough in this country. If I were worth $1,000,000 it would not hurt me to see a man get a fair price for what he's got—his wages of produce.

get a fair price for what he's got—his wages of produce.

"They say, 'Oh well, Livingston, your fool plar is going to inflate the currency and somebody will get hurt.' Well, an inflated currency never hurt a poor man. You were happy when you paid $3,000 in confederate money for a mule. But our people don't want that kind of currency. On, stop your kicking till you get something to kick for!

"We are for an econominal administration of government. If we lessen the tax on the pool don't we lessen the tax on the pool don't we lessen the tax on the white? Who wants anything else? Nobody but these protectionists, and thank God, we havent got many of them down here.

"We don't want any discrimination in railroads. The railroad man can't object to that.

"Let me snin up: Our principles are good; the conduct of the order has been good; our promises for the future are good. Why should a man set ir judgment upon us harshly today? Why not help us and when we make mistakes help us correct them."

Colonel Livingston said the chief danger of the order was in the divisions that follow success. There were promoters of strife, and tale bearers in the order who should be kicked out.

Mr. Carroll Payne Will Hear the Western

An important appointment was announced in the United States court yesterday morning. It was that of Mr. J. Carroll Payne as special master in chancery to hear and decide upon all matters in which the old Western and Atlantic company is interested.

The facts concerning the appointment of Senator Brown and Major Stahlman, as receivers of the old company, are pretty well known. Several days before the expiration of the lease between the state and the old lessees of the road. Mr. Julius Brown went to New Orleans and ob tained from Judge Pardee an order appointing Joseph E. Brown and E. B. Stahlman receivers for the road. The bill has brought in the names of William T. Walters, of Baltimore; Henry B. Plant, of New York; Calvin S. Brice, of Ohio; W. . Raoul and others against the railroad, and in the bill they aver that the contract with the state has expired, that there is a large amount of property and assets, and also a number of suits pe ing for damages and on other grounds, and that, as the corporation is defunct, the best, simplest and cheapest plan to liquidate the affairs of the company will be a re-

The prayer was granted, and as the bill was riendly in its nature all went well; but the fight vill come up later, and the cause of it is this: There being a large number of damage suits pending in the state courts against the Western and Atlantic railroad, some of the attorneys interested had a bill introduced in the present legislature for the purpose of prolonging the life of the moribund corporation. This bill went through, was duly signed and became a law be-fore the old lease expired, and the corporation died. These litigants in the state court claim that under these circumstances they can go on in the state courts, try their cases and get their verdicts as usual. The receivers, on the other hand. claim that the life of a corporati prolonged against than can that of an individual who has made up his mind to die; that the W and Atlantic Railroad Company expired on the 27th of December, 1890, and not caring to go on in its corporate existence, the legislat compel it to do so, especially when its receivers, by the aid of the federal court, are prepared to have all claims ascertained, the amounts determined and the debts paid. There are thirty or forty suits of various kinds, and the result will be that the questions involved will finally be determined in the United States circuit court. There is a large fund—it may amount to several hundred thousand dollars—to be gathered together into the registrar of the court, and the outlook is for considerable business for the court.

Yesterday morning, as stated above, an order was granted appointing Mr. Carroll Payne the special master to determine all these questions which may arise on interventions, which will be filed by the various parties interested in obtaining judgments against the receivers. And if the position taken by the receivers be cor-

And it the position taken by the receivers be correct, Mr. Payne will have considerable work on his hands. Mr. Julius Brown, who is the standing master in chancey of the United States court, but who is disqualified in this case, agreed with Judge Pardee upon Mr. Payne as special-master. In this controversy, the position is one which promises to be not only very important, owing to the number and character of the questions which will have to be passed upon, but also a very lucrative one.

The legal question whether, for any purpose, the life of an unwilling corporation can be prolonged, seems to be a new one, and certainly promises to be entertaining from the legal standpoint.

A Stabbing Affray.—Joe and Jim Price, two negro boys, brothers, engaged in a quarrel yesterday morning, which came near having a disastrous ending. In the scuille Jim stabbed Joe in the back with a pocket-knife, inflicting an ugly wound. Jim Price was arrested and Joe taken to his home. At the station house Jim said his brother first drew the knife. He took it away from him and then did the stabbing. EMMA ABBOTT.

THE CENTRAL DIRECTORY. The Annual, Election Held in Savannah

Yesterday. SAVANNAH, Ga., January 5.-[Special.]-The election for three directors of the Central annual election for three directors of Ade Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia was held at the Central's bank, on Bay street, today. All of the old board were re-elected, with the ex-ception of the late Judge W.S. Chisholm, for whom Colonel W. B. Harrold, of Americus, was substituted.

Messrs. John C. Calhoun, James Swann and S. M. Inman, as a committee representing the Richmond and West Point Terminal, voted the 42,000 shares of Central stock, which that company hold. As that block is about 5,000 shares more than a majority, its block settled the election.

The board now stands thus: E. P. Alexander, J. K. Garnett, E. M. Green, Abrahami Vetsburg, Joseph Hull, C. H. Phinizy, Pat Calhoun, John C. Calhoun, S. M. Inman, H. T. Inman, H. P. Howell, James Swann, W. B. Harrold.

Messrs. A. Vetsburg, Joseph Hull, E. M. Green, William Hunter, Captain John M. Guerard and Captain Jacob Raners had charge of the election. All of the directors, except Mr. Hugh! Imman, are in the city. Mr. Inman is expected u might. The directors will organize, with Genéra! Alexander as president. Colonel Harrold has a served on the Central board once or twice before.

Colonel John C. Caboun says fatat Jay Gould has no desire to be re-crosented on the board by his son. Mr. Gould will send a great deal of business from the southwest to Savannah in the course of the present year, and a daily line of steamers to New York may be incressary. The money market in New York may be incressary. The money market in New York may be incressary. General Alexander will be elected president, and Mr. Cecil Gabbett will be continued as general manager. The administration of General Sarrell, as general manager of the Ocean Steamship Line, is highly commended by all the stockholders, and Mr. Gabbett was equally as much complimented on the admirable condition of his departure, ibstituted. Messrs. John C. Calhoun, James Swa'nn and S. M.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., January 5.—(Special.)—Not since the failure of the old Meckler burg bank has such a sensation been known here as the failure of Mr. E. K. P. Osborne is now creating. Mr. Osborne has, for a long time been recognized as the most prominent, as well as they shareden to the most prominent, as well as they shareden to the Alpha Cotton mills, owner of the street railway and officially and financially connexted in scores of other business enterprises. Figure years ago, when he bought the street railway, he gave up a lucrative law practice to devote his time to the various enterprises he was connexted with. He was chosen guardian for the estagic of the late Sheriff Alexander, and required to give a heavy bond. All went well, and Mr. Osborne seemed to be prospering until a few weeks ago, when his trouble very quietly began.

And Colonel Forsyth Has Been Suspended from His Command—The Latest from the Frontier.

WASHINGTON, January 5.-The report reoched here today, through an unofficial ource, that Colonel Forsythe had been relieved from his command of troops at Pine Ridge. This report was confirmed at the war depart ment today. The officials, however, show a decided disinclination to talk about the matter Neither Secretary Proctor nor General

Schofield is willing to say very much on the subject, although both practically admit that General Miles did not act entirely upon his General Miles did not act entirely upon his own responsibility. Neither of them admit having ordered Forsythe's suspension from command, but both say General Miles probably acted upon a suggestion from here. As there is nobody here besides these two, who are in a position to suggest anything to General Miles, excepting President Harrison, the conclusion is reached that Forsythe was suspended by the president pending an inquiry into the circumstances attending the fight at Wounded Knee, last week, in which so many lives were lost, both whites and Indians.

General Schofield said that an investigation

General Schofield said that an investigation of the Wounded Knee fight is probably now being conducted by General Miles. The general management of the fight is also to be looked into, but the particular point in question is the death of women and children. OMAHA GUARDS TO THE FRONT.

WHAT OFFICERS SAY. One officer remarked that "it is preposterous to say that it is necessary in an Indian skirmish to stop firing long enough to find out just what to stop firing long enough to find out just what sort of an Indian you are shooting at. The women and men look very much alike in their blanket costume, and the former are quite as fierce fighters as the men. A Sioux sounw is as head an enemy as a back at Sioux squaw is as bad an enemy as a buck at times. Little boys, too, can shoot quite as well as their fathers, and what a spectacle it well as their lathers, and what a spectacle it would be for a soldier on seeing a ten-year-old pointing a loaded gun at him, with as true an aim as the best marksmen in the army, to stop his advance and cry: "My son, you must drop that gun, for you are a minor and I am not allowed to hurt you."

NEWS FROM THE FRONT.

OMAHA, Neb., January 5.—A Bee correspondent telegraphs as follows from Pine spondent telegraphs as follows from Pine Ridge agency as to the situation here, considered in its entirety. The indications that the greatest battle in history is almost at hand are increasing. The report of every scout adds new and strong support to these indications, that were only emphasized by the bloody affair on Wounded Knee. General Miles believes exactly this, and has said so in strong words; the small handful of Indian employes here affirm it. Before the terrific clash comes they want to try and rescue their relatives from the enemy's camp, and are now interceding with the authorities for permission, at the risk of their lives, to make the attempt. These Indians in the government employ also express the hope that they can induce many of these who were friendly before the Wounded Knee battle and were remaining the Wounded Knee battle and were remaining here according to instructions, also to come in and be saved from the certain annihilation that awaits them within the ranks of the hos-

HALL IS GUILTY.

THE JURY COMES TO A VERDICT AT LAST.

A Lawyer and a Sheritf Under the Shadow of the Penitentiary.

Macon, Ga., January 5.—[Special.]—The jury in the Hall conspiracy case rendered its verdict his afternoon, about 4:30 o'clock, having been shut up on the case since Saturday afternoon.

This afternoon the jury asked Judge Speer to reclarge them on corroborative evidence, and whether or not they were forced to believe the testimony that had been impeached. The corroborative evidence was based on this: The jury did not wish to believe the testimony of Lem Burch alone, but as it had been corroborated by the evidence of Clements and Bohannon, they were required to believe Burch and Clements. They had both confessed that they had taken part in the conspiracy to assassinate Forsyth. The unimpeached evidence to which the jury referred was that of Bohannon.

Judge Speer charged that the jury must accept impeached evidence to which the jury referred was that of Bohannon.

Judge Speer charged that the jury must accept the corroborative and unimpeached evidence.

After receiving this charge the jury was only a few minutes in making a verdict, which was a compromise one. Some of the jury did not wish too weak a verdict, and some did not wish it too extreme. The following was the verdict:

"L. A. Hall, Wright Lancaster and Charlie Clements were found guilty of murder and conspiracy, and recommended to imprisonment for life. John Lancaster and Lewis Knight were found guilty of conspiracy."

They can be sentenced to pay fines from $1 to $5,000 and imprisonment from one year to ten, or simply, the or imprisonment in the discretion of the court. James Moore was found not guilty. Lem Burch, one of the chief conspirators and who confessed, was not arraigned on trial at all, and it is supposed he will be given his liberty as the price of his confession.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 5.—The stock market today maintained its strong tone, and the investment character of the buying was the most prominent feature of the day. Dealings showed a pronounced broadening out of the market, and some stocks which have been neglected for months were traded in, and the activity in the general list was greater than at any time since the present rise began. There was considerable realization in the last hour, which settled many of the leading stocks away from the best prices, but never at any time of the day was the strong undertone invaired. leading stocks away from the best prices, but never at any time of the day was the strong undertone impaired for a moment. Louisville and Nashville is one of the few active stocks showing an important gain for the day. The Vanderbilts were all conspicuous for strength, and there was more trading in them than usual of late, while Villards were helped by the late flattering statement of Northern Pacific, and North American in particular became a leading feature of the market in advances of the morning in face of realization of the trading element later in the day. The close, however, showed considerable strength with most of the list at close to the highest point. The list is generally higher tonight. Sales listed aggregated 250,090 shares; un-

NEW YORK, January 5.—In spite of the heavy sell-ing for foreign accounts today our market was strong and scored good advances in almost every security on the list. Traders account for this by decidedly bull feeling and increasing confidence as the new year progresses and the heavy commercial failure which had been predicted failed to materialize, and also attribute it to the rather confident utterances of the prominent railroad men now flocking towards this city in order to attend the meeting of the new failured ovanigation. attend the meeting of the new railroad organization which will take place here on Thursday. It is certainly raging, and would indicate an inci demand, that the market has rapidly taken from 25,000 to 3,000 shares of stock for foreign account to-day and advanced in the face of it, and unless something unforeseen should develop we look for continually rising markets until the result of Thursday's meeting is known. Money is becoming more plentiful as the heavy January disbursements make themselves felt, and is reflected in the rising prices for bonds, for which the market is broadening considerably.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, January 5.—[Special.]—From the tenor of our foreign advices we judge that the little importers took advantage of our sharp advance to sell in Liverpool today fill the cetton the market would take, and this pressure proved too great for the bulls to resist. Oponing steady at 5-64d advance, that market gave way steadily, closing weak at only a slight advance from last Wednesday's final prices. Our market opened with sellers, declining slowly as advices were received of the heavy movement until from Hedispoints were lost from Saturday's prices. A slight reaction at the end of the day on the failure of New Orleans to receive her estimated receipts and a demand from holders of spots to put forward their February hedges, closing steady. A slight reaction is expected from Liverpool tomorrow, but the market has been largely liquidated, while operators remain cautious after their recent experience on the short side, and will carefully watch the movement of the crop. So far the interior movement is largely in excess of last year.

NEW YORK, January 5.—Liverpool was disappointing at the start, and even selling after the opening so as to dissipate much of the good feeling that prevailed on Friday and Saturday. In addition the revailed on Friday and Saturday. In addition the receipts were quite heavy, and gave courage to the bears, who were only waiting such an opportunity to become aggressive again. The result has been quite a decline from the best prices of last week. We notice that speculation is becoming somewhat broader again, and this, if nothing clse, will probably give us an active market. Our Manchester advices are certainly encouraging, but we are of the opinion that the market is a sale on all good spurts. There was some talk recently of reduced crop estimates. We have, however, not much changed our views on this point. The market closed steady at within a few points from the lowest of the day.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, January 5.—The speculative markets on 'change averaged strong and closed higher than on Saturday. The closing quotation for May wheat was 98 Mg. compared with 98c Saturday.

Corn was quoted at 53 ½ a 53 ¼ c as the session was terminating, against 53 ½ c Saturday.

Provisions acted strong on smaller receipts and higher prices of hogs.

Opening,

election attracted so much attention of the members of the board the fore part of the session that we did not look for a very active market. As is quite frequenty the case in speculation, the unexpected very often appens, and it turned out to be a very active specularive day. The visible supply showed rather a larger inrease than was expected and caused a tempera cline in wheat, but the market soon recovered from the effect and closed strong at about the highest of the day. Foreign markets closed strong and higher, Some reports of damage to the continental crop were received. We notice the lower grades of wheat for milling are strong here and at Minneapolis also. This is the keynote of the legisimate situation. The demand for oats and corn continues, also the speculative sentiment seems to favor the bull side. Sales of lard and ribs to the distributing trade continues very large. This is the particular cause of the advance in speculative grades for future delivery. On the whole the market is firm with the outlook favorable for investors.

'NEILL'S greatest production! That was the verdict an Atlanta aulience delivered last night upon the popular actor's production of "The Dead Heart." An artistic success it certainly was-judged by any standard; and if audiences in other parts of the country have been anything like last night, the production is a great financial uccess, as well.

What an audience! Why, before the doors were opened every seat in the house was sold, and many people, unable to gain admission, had decided to postpone their going until today's matinee. No actor could have received a more enthusiastic reception, and no production could, apparently, have pleased more thoroughly. He was given a kindly welcome on his tirst ampearance. parently, have pleased more thoroughly. He was given a kindly welcome on his first appearance, for the sake of dear old Monte Cristo: full recognition did his lighter efforts in the early scenes receive; and his really great acting in the release-from-the-bastile scene called forth genuine storms of applause. From the beginning to the end, the reception tendered Mr. O'Neill was an ovation—an ovation, by the way in which other members of the commany the way, in which other members of the company

But first-"The Dead Heart," what is it. The story of the play is briefly told.

The Story of the Play. In the prologue of the play the young Parisian sculptor, Robert Landry, living the lively life of Paris, loves with all his heart the beautiful Catherine Duval. The persons of the drama are first seen in a pleasure garden. It is the care of La Belle Jardiniere, where all is mirth and pleasant festivity, within sight of the towers of Notre Dame. But first we make the acquaintance of the bad angel of this Paris epic—one Latour, a gay baron, self-indulgent, eager to promote the immoral license of his friends; one who wields by court favor the fearful power of the lettre de cachet. His friend, the Count de St. Valery, loves Catherine Duval, and, having first paved the way with presents, attempts to carry her off with presents, attempts to carry her off by entering her chamber. Robert Landry surrises him in the act, and is himself surprised lmost out of his faith in Catherine, the situation not being free from suspicion. Then enter the officers of the law. Landry, tremulous with his doubts of Catherine, and frenzied by his causeless arrest, is borne off to the bastile.

Eighteen years elapse—spent by Robert Landry in the misery and darkness of his squalid cell. Catherine and her noble lover have married, and and have a son, a bright young lad in his first darm of markets. dawn of manhood. Ere 1789 the count dies. Catherine Duval, a sweet, grey-haired mother, still beautiful, is watching with much anguish the roystering youth of her darling son, who, like his father, is cursed with the malign friendship of the act of the actual play begins. It commences with the taking of the bastile. The great prison frowns its darkest, but its last day has come. Paris has risen. With ringing shouts the people enter the hastile to scour its corridors and dungeons for the victims of royal and aristocratic oppression. When prisoner after prisoner has been brought out, tottering, ragged and blear-eyed, a figure nobler, more striking, but bearing, if possible, worse signs of suffering than any, is supported across the bridge and down to the center of the stage. Some of Landry's old friends recognize him in this foriorn, long-bearded, peak-faced man-gazing, or trying to gaze (for the light nearly blinds him), vacantly into space. The vitality of the worn, wan man is evident enough; but his visage' is marred, and his soul is in the suspense of an 'irresistible, overmastering torpor. In the meshes of thoughts gradually shaping into weird remembrances as he submits, scarcely conscious, to the questioning of his long-forgotten friends—dipring the slow, slow filing of the fetters that have russed to his limbs, undisturbed for years and years—the prematurely old man faintly moves and stratches, as it were prisoner has been brought out, tottering, ragged mits, scarcely conscious, to the questioning of his long-forgotten friends—darring the slow, slow filing of the fetters that have rusted to his limbs, undisturbed for years and years—the prematurely old man faintly moves and stretches, as it were, the tardily-recovering faculties of his mind. "At long last" the strange figure does become self-responsible and self-responsive. Is is the name of Catherine, pronounced by his old triend, the graff Legrand, that really and completely awakes the bright and flashing mind that still inhabits this extraordinary tenement of wrecked and racked humanity. Almost with screams of freedom he rises and half stagers, half is carried away, from the first scene of his liberation, into the thickening, crowding, embarrassing activities of his newly arisen life from the dead.

In an interview between the polished baron and the sweet countess, the sudience learns the extent to which young St. Walery is living recklessly under the sinister auspices which ruined his father.

The next scene is in the cafe, a sort of gambling house, where young St. Valery has been brought by the baron. Robert Landry, is also there, much changed since he came out of the bastile. The countess hovers anxious in the rear, and has her first interview with Landry since his liberation. He declares his heart to be dead. Only the memory of two names live in it—and live for vengeance—Latour and St. Valery. On the young count he means to wreak the vengeance which he swore against his father. Landry, his dead heart scarcely stirred within him, but quite inaccessible to pity, looks forward to the ruining of the young count by Latour, who is leading him through a course of folly, and the guillotning of them both as soon as they can be got within the clutches of the revolution.

Five years more elapsed. Paris is changed.

count by Latour, who is leading him through a course of folly, and the guillothing of them both as soon as they can be got within the clutches of the revolution.

Five years more elapsed. Paris is changed somewhat. The wild beheading fury of 1734 is in full action. The mob is frivolous and blood-thirsty. Latour and his young victim are both prisoners, and doomed. The Parisian canaille are assembled to jeer the condemned. Mother and son have a touching interview. Next a scene of daring revel and pasquinading—so to speak—on the eve of death amongst the royalist prisoners, separately confined in a row of cells visible to the audience. And then approaches the beginning of the end of Landry's revenge.

Robert Landry is now in a position of authority. He occupies a large room in the Conciergerie. At the moment it is radiantly moonlit. He is writing at a table. He sends for Latour, who enters with lofty port, and they begin a dialogue in which the long-injured Landry forces upon his enemy the necessity of fighting him. But not before the infinitely base aristocrat has made an attempt to stab the revolutionary chief in the back. If he had succeeded he could have escaped, for Laddry has prepared and shown him his passport, to be accepted with the single condition of first meeting him in combat. They fight with sabres. It is a real and savage encounter. Each thrust and parries well, and the fortune of the fray seems doubtful. But a skillful lunge of Landry ends it, and Latour falls.

The poor mother, about, at seven that morning, to be bereaved of her son by the most fearful death, has watched out in the coul all night. As the third and last act of the drama opens, she is disclosed sitting on the steps of the gruesome guillotine. Landry, who does not see her at first, sollloquises, haunted by the feeling that the woman he saw watching all night may have been Catherine, His dead heart is by no means dead. Catherine speaks to him. And now Landry learns that the villainy of his confinement was entirely Latour's, and not att seen within. He questions old Legrand as to the order of the prisoners' deaths. Their numbers are heard called out, and they go with various expressions, and often in si-ence to their fate A tumbril with its living load grinds and joits heavily over the stones. Landry gives orders which delay the third tumbril. He sends to Robespierre for a passport for the young count. Does the man who keeps the list know the prisoners by sight? No. Clearly Landry has resolved to substitute himself for the condemned young man. His "spirit leaps within him, as lightened of an unknown burden, and mounts upward where sorrow is unknown."

The countess, his love of old, comes in, and he tells her that his heart is still living. He "has been in darkness, and has found the light once more." He implores pardon from his "first love and his last."

Then the numbers are called—the muster-roll of death. Thirty is the fatal number, as the nother too well knows. "Twenty-six"—"twenty-seven"—"twenty-eight." Farewell! They will meet again. "On that great hope he builds his strength." He goes. "Twenty-nine." "Thirty." "Here—and ready," is heard without. It is Landry's clear and meaning voice.

There is a high window at the back of the room. Mother and son gaze without—for young St. Valery has come rushing in, set free, and with Robespierre's passport; and there, lofty and spiritlike in the yet moonlit dawn, stands Landry beneath the guillotine, ready to sacrifice himself to save the son of his one love. Robespierre, however, arrives at the opportune moment, and prevents the execution of both Landry or the young St. Valery.

Last Night's Production. Last Night's Production.

We have been so accustomed of late years to associate Mr. O'Neill with the role he has made so completely his—that of Edmund Dantes, in his famous production of "Monte Cristo"—that we

THE BASTILE SCENE. are prone to forget his many successes before he began his portrayal of that character. To many people, therefore, Mr. O'Neill's acting last people, therefore, Mr. O'Neili's acting last night came as an unexpected revelation of strength. Mr. O'Neili's naturalness is one of the principal charms of his always artistic work, and never does he display these powers to better advantage than in the scene of the release from the bastile. Here he is a man broken down in health, half mad from imprisonment, loaded down with chains. All is a blank at first, but gradually reason returns, and at the sound of the name of his old lieve the despair of athe intervening years is swept away and he lives again. This scene received, as it deserved, several enthusiastic curtain calls. It is a great bit of acting. The duel with Latour and the guillotine scene were excellently done and Mr. O'Neili was warmly applauded upon every possible occasion.

O'Neilt was warmly applauded upon every possible occasion.

The supporting company is exceilent. Miss Raven has a difficult role, but sustains it admirably. Mr. Whiting gave a lifelike impersonation of the unscruptions Latour. Mr. Shannon furnished what comedy there was in his artistic work as Toupet. Miss Claire was good as Cervisette. Messrs. Charters, Jones Boudinot, Clusetti, Armidel and Brown, Miss Fletcher and Miss Dunbar completed an excellent cast. completed an excellent cast.

"The Dead Heart" will be repeated at today's matinee. Tonight the ever-popular "Monte Cristo."

DISSENTING MINISTERS.

THEY EXPRESS ADVERSE OPINIONS ON THE DOUGLASVILLE DEBATE.

The Douglasville dispute meets with little favor among the Atlanta ministry.

From the beginning of the discussion they have looked upon it as a very untimely, and innecessary affair, and have not favored he Yesterday a number of leading ministers with the crowd. Those men began to talk about the size of heads at the first start. "My impression is that the newspapers of the country ought to ignore them entirely. That would be a well-merited punishment for them. Too frequently—I wont say it of these men—the object of such antagonisms—seems to be to secure has a right to constitute himself as a representa-tive of a denomination. I'm sorry for Douglas-ville. At first I was rather inclined to think it an advertising dodge for a suburban town."

Mr. Lewis's Opinion.
Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Trinity church, being asked its opinion of the Douglasville controversy upon sm, answered:

be quarantined."

Dr. Hawthorne Speaks.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne answered straight from the shoulder:

"I do not believe in these public debates on denominational questions, beccuse they are generally uttered with bitterness between the disputants, and excite among their respective friends a feeling that is inimical to true piety.

"I believe, however, that every minister should discuss the distinctive principles and practices of the denomination to which he may belong from his own pulpit.

"It is important that the people be informed upon such questions, and every minister ought to be able to expound and defend the tenets of his denomination without giving offense to those with whom he differs."

The Wesleyan Christian Advocate The Wesleyan Christian Advocate, the organ of the Methodist church, speaks out in the same line Here is a copy of an editorial to appear in the next issue of The Advocate:

The citizens of Douglasville, Ga., have two preachers in the arena contending before them on church doctrine, one a Baptist, the other a Methdist. It reminds us of the barbarous days of ancient Rome, when men and beasts were made to contribute to the pleasure of the great throngs in the amphitheater by their useless, bloody con-the amphitheater by their useless, bloody conflicts in the arena.

This kind of ecclesiastical prize-fighting we very much deplore. Its tendency is to develop the lower and undesirable elements of our Christian life, while it contributes nothing to the higher and nobler manhood. We wish our brethren would arm themselves and go forth to contend against the hosts of sin and satan instead of this unseemly war upon each other. It is too late in the world's history, and there is too much to be done in the great march of Christianity, to admit of such sad amusements. They certainly do not represent the Methodist denomination, nor, as far as we know, any other. The doors of our churches ought to be forever closed against them.

DEMANDS

That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It cannot, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-approved remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, and the iodides. The process of man-ufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously ufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not boiled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a decoction; but it is a com-pound extract, obtained by a method ex-clusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diureties known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formconnected or universal tenand. Its Soundary was a proved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A. J. WEST & CO. AUCTIONEERS. Auction Sale!

Valuable property in Fulton county will be sold at 11 o'clock on the first Tuesday, 6th January, 1891, before the courthouse door in the city of Atlanta, to highest bidder for cash.

Lot A contains 100 acres in land lot 168; 30 acres in timber, balance cleared. On this are two tenement houses, with good rock chimneys, barn, stable, etc.; fine garden, splendid well and several bold springs.

Lot B contains 90 acres adjoining the above, and is in land lot 171; 25 acres in timber, balance cleared; one tenement house, and well watered. Gold has been found on this lot, and a few years ago a prominent man, now living in Atlanta, of-fered $5,000 for this place. Lot C contains 26 acres adjoining both the above tracts, and is in land lot 172; 10 acres cleared, bal-tracts, and is in land lot 172; lo acres cleared, bar-ance in timber; an abundance of water. These tracts will be sold separately. This property will be sold absolutely to the highest bidder for each. The whole tract is 13½ miles from Atlanta by the Peachtree road and known as the John S. Heard land. Overlooks the Chattahoochee river and affords one of the finest views in Georgia. From one point the river can be seen for a distance of six miles.

It is about four miles from Dunwoody, on the Roswell railroad, and about three miles from Mc-Ivers, on the Western and Atlantic railroad. Heard's ferry crossing the Chattahoochee on the road from Marietta to Canton, is at this property.

This is very fine property, and if you will keep an eye on this sale and be at the courthous promptly at the time, you can get a bargain.
Plats are now ready at our office.

DECISIVE REDUCTIONS!

We can serve a double purpose all through the store, and especially in the Tailoring Department. We want to move the stock on hand and keep our work-people busy. Money and work are neither none too plentiful just now. So we make a clear, clean, extravagant discount from our regular established prices for Clothing, Custom or Ready-Made.

The style of manufacture, the perfect fit, everything about them is stamped superior. We'd rather have the money if we don't get their worth.
